The Senior Class of 1989 would

Dr. Joanne Wheeler

Which is the best way to improve your grip strength: eating your vegetables or lugging your Bedford and Sellers back and forth to school everyday? Regardless of what anyone's parents may say, spinach has nothing on Mrs. Wheeler for building character. Nor does Fitness begin to compare with a Wheeler essay for keeping our circulation flowing. Furthermore, everyone at Uni High knows who Mrs. Wheeler is. The mere mention of her name will set even the greenest subfreshmen trembling in anticipation. Joanne Wheeler is probably best known for her ability to cram over 200 years of American History in less than 200 hours of class time, but she does so much more than that.

Mrs. Wheeler took an active interest in our lives, in and outside of class. By the end of the year she had assigned us all seats in the front row. Mrs. Wheeler encouraged us to do our work in all of our classes, and she attended many of our extracurricular events.

And last, but not least of all, Mrs. Wheeler also roamed the second floor hallway, extremely concerned about our social development. Besides, someone had to find our prom dates!

To the class of '89, Mrs. Wheeler was an important part of our experience at Uni, and we'd have hated to lose her. To Mrs. Wheeler, we'd just like to say, "We love you more than Sanka ever will. Take care of yourself!"

DEDICATION

like to dedicate the yearbook to

Mr. John Turner

John Turner? Who's John Turner? That's a question many students, new to Uni will ask. Well, he may not know as much as Dr. Wheeler about the wonders of American History, but he could probably tell what your grades were on all of last quarter's tests. After all, who do you think picked them up off the second floor hallway?

John Turner is Uni High's answer to the EPA. He picks up after us even more than our moms do. For all that Mr. Turner has done for us, we think he deserves a lot of credit. Not many people would devote countless years of their lives to a losing cause: singlehandedly keeping Uni as clean as is humanly possible. However, even Mr. Turner has to draw the line somehwere; he doesn't do windows and he doesn't go near the student lounge. (That's for the college students who don't know any better.)

So, the next time you're cleaning out your locker after school, take the time to walk across the hall and throw away your B-/C+ History essays in one of the trash cans strategically placed for your convenience. For those of us who just don't have the time, remember to say, "Thanks, Mr. Turner!" the next time you see him!

We, the Senior class, would like to give our thanks to Mr. Turner for all he's done for us during our years at Uni High. "For all you do, this Bud's for you!"

Tweedledee and Tweedledum

Life at Uni this year has been exciting, as always. There were, of course, dances, basketball games, and lounge beach parties. Besides the more conventional activities, there were more bizarre occurrences as well. Our school was visited by pigs this year — kissing pigs. Students pledged money for the right to decide which member of the faculty should pucker up to a pig. Orgasm Day was new to the lounge this year. No other school has a day like this!

In such a messy, unappetizing environment, it's amazing that anyone could enjoy their lunches, but everyone always did. Trips to campus, visits to White Hen, and hot food from the microwave were the lunch time alternatives to brown bags.

Sports are always enjoyed at Uni. Leisure time (free hours and time after classes) is often spent playing the "REAL" sports of Uni. Athletic endeavors included such activities as Lounge beach ball, hall golf (with the obstacles including unsuspecting teachers), Nerf basketball, and indoor/outdoor football (depending on which teachers are in the hallways).

Upcoming events (events that will take place after this book is published) include the Senior/Faculty Volleyball game, X-Week, a week designated by Student Council during which the school raises money for a chosen charity, and numerous academic events. Dances include the Spring Fling, a semi-formal dance, and the Junior/Senior Prom, which will take place once school is out. In addition, the seniors have the senior trip to an undecided place and finally, graduation.

ORIENTATION PICNIC

This year's orientation picnic was at Hessel Park. The fun and festivities were interrupted by the inevitable rain, but everyone enjoyed themselves with the nutritious food and games of football, basketball, frisbee, and soccer.

"Yippee!"

FALL PLAY

Hampered by hoopskirts, bolsters and wigs, the cast of She Stoops to Conquer worked many long hours to produce an amazing show. Under the fearless leadership of Laura Reneau, Oliver Goldsmith's words came to life as the North Attic was transformed into 18th century England. Two out of three performances were sold out for people came in droves to see " . . . the mistakes of a night."

"She's mine!"

"Dahling, we must practice holding hands."

"It's beautiful, just look at it!"

Fruit Salad

Aaron Loeb, a senior, wrote the play Fruit Salad which was performed by Uni students in the North Attic Playhouse in the Fall with a theme of "Dare to be Identical." The play was about a society in which everyone was the same — everyone was captain of the football team or head cheerleader, everyone had the same name, everyone dressed the same — until one boy, John Smith, dared to be different. Soon, everyone was marching to a different beat. Bryce Brack, a "leftover" hippie from the '60s, John Smith's idol, helped bring back the individualism movement with Woodstock 10. The Normals, an underground organization, also supported John — but the Government opposed him and brought John's movement to a halt, restoring everyone to their identical selves. The scene changes were really great with '60s music and colorful "individual" posters.

DANCES

The Notth Attic shakes.

The dances were, as always, incredibly exciting and titillating. With Uni's newly purchased stereo, the North Attic rocked to the beat. We had many successful celebrations this year including the Howdy Hop, Thanksgiving, and Valentine's Day dances.

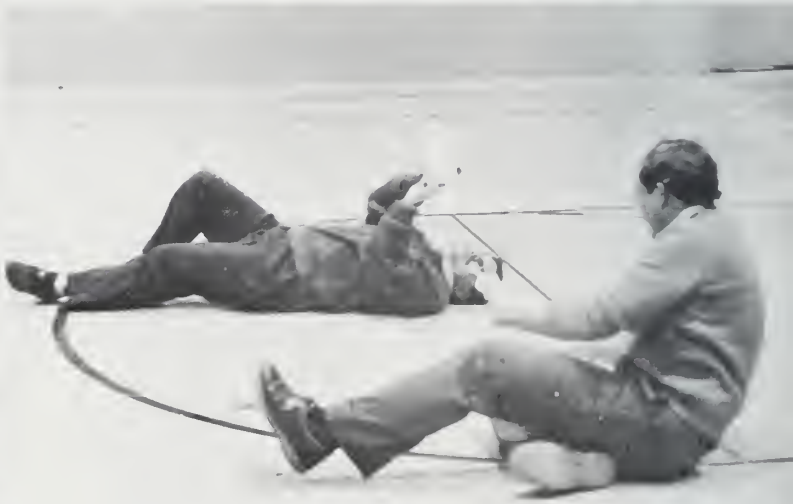
CHRISTMAS PARTY

The annual Christmas party was quite a ball. All the students took time out from studies to watch the antics of the faculty. The Foreign Language department tried to culture a cow, and Mr. Butler told everyone a story. Other highlights included Dr. Ames dressed up as Frosty the Snowman, the Senior gifts, and the Madrigals. Frosty tossed out candy canes to all the good little boys and girls while the Madrigals ran through their numbers. The Seniors were quite generous with their gifts this year — Mr. Butler received a car and Mr. Murphy received Hugo.

"Romeo, oh Romeo, wherefore art thou Romeo?"

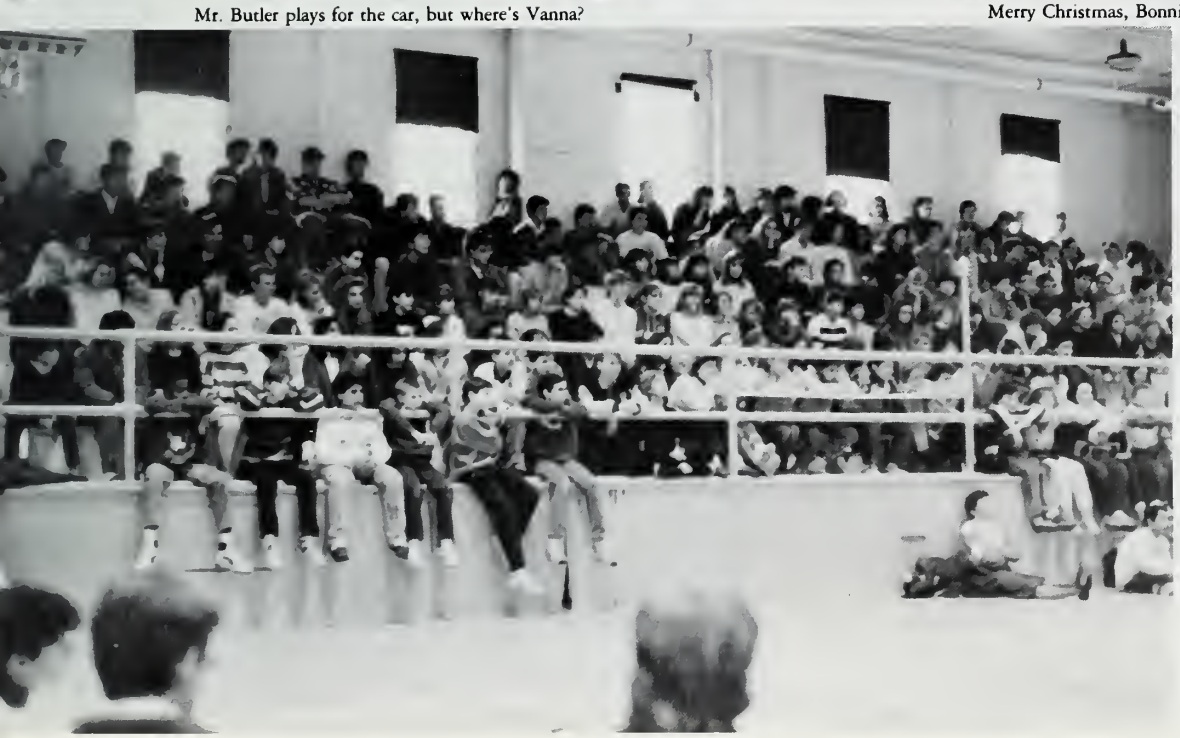
. . . he began to dance around.



"Oh my! Slippers for little old me?"

Mr. Butler plays for the car, but where's Vanna?

Merry Christmas, Bonnie!



Fart-licks, drag suits, suicides, wind sprints, kick-butts. Hell, just like fitness, only better . . .

1988-1989 was a terrific year for Uni athletics. Practicing in last summer's heat, fall sports at Uni got off to a blazing start. The boys' soccer team, led by seven seniors, had another winning season with many close games. This year's girls' swim team, one of the youngest ever, placed well at sectionals, and the majority of them shall be returning next year. The boys' cross-country team also experienced a growing season this year, while the more matured girls' team ran to a third-place finish at state.

While the weather cooled down, winter athletics were just heating up. Plagued by illness and injury, the boys' basketball team didn't have quite as good a season as they'd hoped. However, the guys were all back to finish the season with a triumphant last home game. The girls' basketball team was also hot this year. Though averaging a height of 5'5", they dribbled through the legs of the competition to their second-best record ever.

This year's track and field teams are also looking forward to a rewarding season. Both boys' and girls' teams are larger and swifter.

Recent trends would seem to signify at least one thing — Uni's not just for nerds anymore.

SPORTS

SOCCER

This year's varsity soccer team, led by seven seniors (the Magnificent Seven) and Allison Hightshoe (the first girl in the area to start for a varsity soccer team), was successful in its quest for its second straight winning season (6-4-4). Uni tied such powerhouses as Champaign Centennial and Danville. This year's soccer team consisted of the following people (left to right, top to bottom): Coaches Garcia and Scott, Brian Frizzell, Stefan Medina, Andrew Cardman, Joel Garcia, Mark Cahill, Joe Monahan, Ryan Hedgepeth, Mark Neely, Alec Reisner, Managers Sang Hwang and Brendan DeTemple, Noah Levin, Kevin Curran, Allison Hightshoe, Chanhsavat Sylavong, Doug Jolly, Fabio Gratton, Dave Das, Avi Porton, Jason Wolf, Renxin Xia, and Peter Norby

GIRLS' CROSS COUNTRY

The girls' cross country team climbed to phenomenal heights during their 1988 season. There were only eight members, but with a lot of team spirit, work, and sweat, they defeated the competition and captured the third place title at the IHSA State Meet. This year's team included (pictured below, left to right, top to bottom): Ellen Wheeler, Tysan Huang, Tamar Shapiro, Bridget O'Connor, Amy Parker, Judy Clifton, Coach Bonnie Byers-Neaville, Alexandra Newman, and Eman Jassim. The team captain was Tamar Shapiro.

BOYS' CROSS COUNTRY

This year's cross country team was young and inexperienced but dedicated. At the regional meet they only missed Sectionals by three points. Captains Paul Talbot and Ted Weinbaum reached Sectionals as individuals, and Paul made it to the state meet. This season's team will be the foundation of stronger teams in the future. (Pictured left to right, top to bottom): Matt Childress, Jimm Lynge, Bill Eisenstein, Ted Weinbaum, Robert Kim, Paul Talbot, Frank Winter, Josh Hopkins, Jeff Schomer, Ho Sun Hwang, Chad Richardson, Peter Nguyen, and Mike Bekiares.

SWIMMING

The swim team enjoyed a fairly successful season this year which included victories over both Urbana and Olympia. Unfortunately, due to a lack of members, they were unable to win any major meets. They swam hard and had a lot of fun. The many highlights included Ana Fradkin's trip to state and a dinner at Bonanza.

GIRLS' VARSITY BASKETBALL

After surviving "Suicides," Shiloh (second in the state), sprints, and Sally, this year's team returned to success by compiling a 15-6 record during the regular season. Led by senior captains Marsha Mohr, Lynne Peck, and Maryka Trent, the team was extremely balanced and improved throughout the entire season. With the rabid support of the Kazoo Krew/card section, they achieved five — and six-game winning streaks. Everyone worked together very well and had a lot of fun. Despite the loss of the three seniors, who will be missed a great deal, the team is looking forward to another awesome season next year.

BOYS' VARSITY BASKETBALL

The highlights of this season came when the boys' varsity upset Normal Calvary Baptist and surprised Armstrong in Uni's last home game. Unfortunately, the varsity team played without center Mark Cahill for the first half of the season, and they were unable to win on the road. Senior captains Joel Garcia, Ryan Hedgepeth, and Mark Neely led this hard-working group to a 5-16 season. (Below, left to right, top to bottom: Coach Tom Scott, Brendan DeTemple, Mark Cahill, Derek Flynn, Joel Garcia, Joe Monahan, Ryan Hedgepeth, Bill Eisenstein, Sang Hwang, Jai Singh, Mark Neely, Robert Kim, Doug Jolly, and Asst. GIRLS' J.V. BASKETBALL

This year's girls' J.V. team surpassed expectations while shattering last year's record for most wins in a season. They pulled out several close games and nearly had their first winning season ever, finishing with a 9-10 record. Their future contributions to the varsity will be greatly valued. (Pictured below left to right, top to bottom: Coach Pat McLoughlin, Allison Hightshoe, Amy Parker, Andrea Peck, Bridget O'Connor, Cyndi Liebovich, Dolly Banerjee, Judy Clifton, Mojgone Azemun, Melinda Minear, Neena Tripathy)

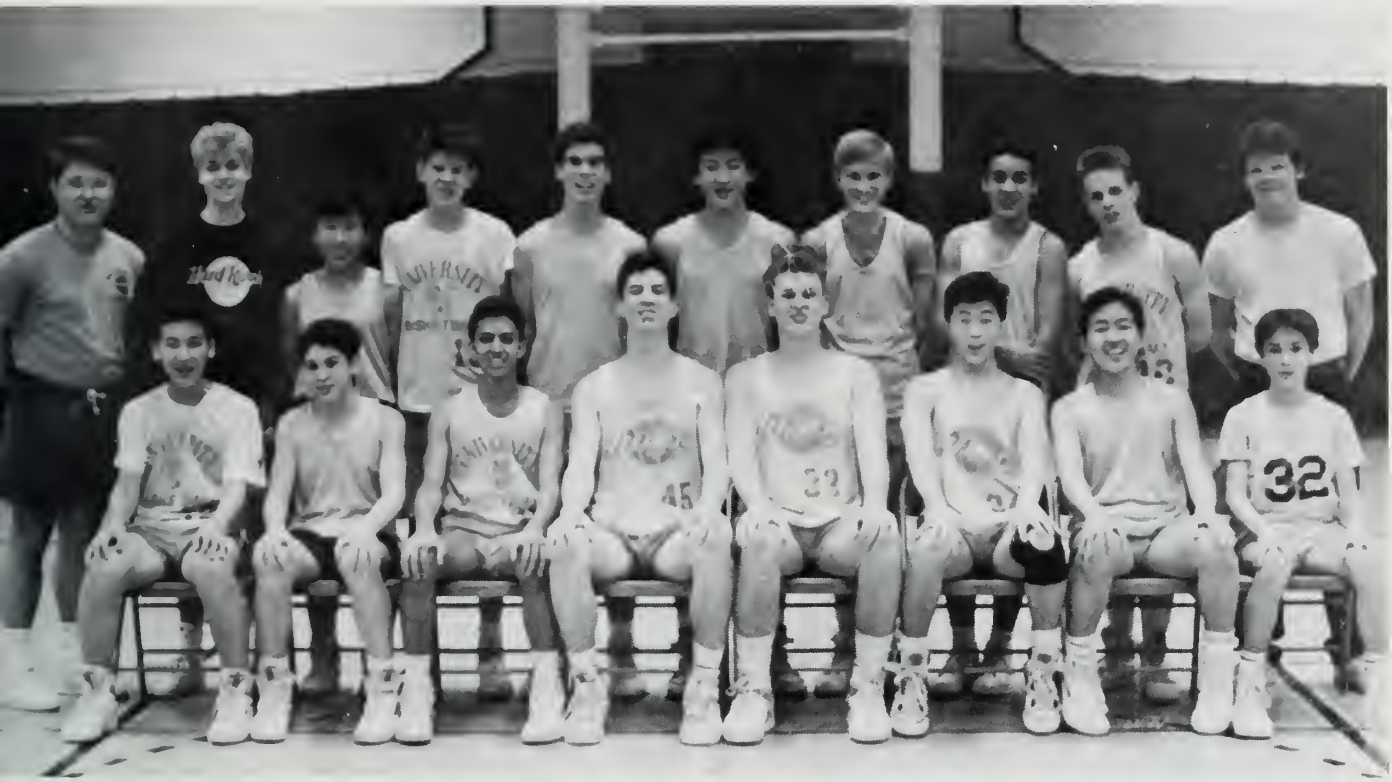
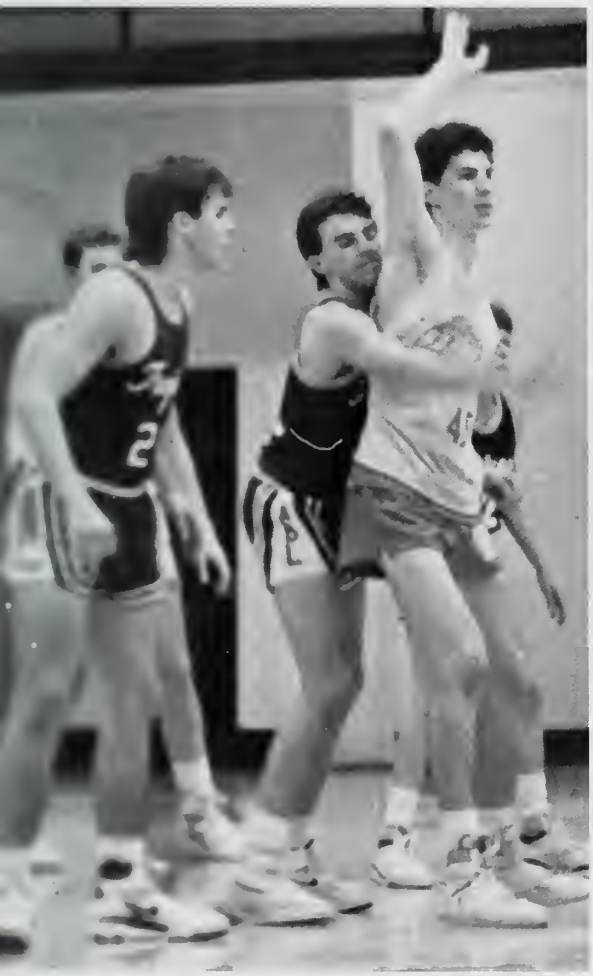
JV BOYS' BASKETBALL





The JV Boys' team had an incredible season this year, smashing the record for most wins, which was set only last year. The Twin Towers line-up of Brendan DeTemple and Derek Flynn, and other returning starters Bobby Jamison, Jai Singh, and Sang Hwang led the JV team to an 8-1 home record and a 14-4 record overall. The team (top to bottom, left to right): Coach Scott, Manager Andrew Cardman, Joe Park, Bobby Jamison, Brian Frizzell, Jeff Kim, Steve Thorn, Dave Das, Nate Stevens, Coach Johnson, Steve Kim, Tristan Scholze, Jai Singh, Brendan DeTemple, Derek Flynn, Sang Hwang, Hosun Hwang, and David Borgeson. SUBBIE B-BALL BOYS' TEAM

The subfreshman boys' basketball team was coached by Rick Murphy, who motivated and inspired them. The team soundly beat Urbana in Uni's only win of the season. The eighteen boys on the team (two-thirds of the male subfreshman population although they were not always victorious, displayed a lot of spirit and potential. The team (top to bottom, left to right): Kian Fatemi, David Bopp, Jon Ott, Joel Jacobson, Matthew Colby, Mr. Murphy, Eddie Lee, Bradley Triden, Alyx Parker, Aaron Holland, Seth Kerlin, Denis Hong, Thi Kyin. Run, Rob, Run!

GIRLS' TEAM

This year the subbie girls were coached by Alice Liu, with the help of Yamini Bhagwat. With five players from Uni High and five from Urbana Junior High School, they made great improvements in their basketball skills. Although they didn't win any games, they had lots of fun. The team (top to bottom, left to right): Alice Liu (coach), Helen Stacey (UJHS), Melissa Schoplain (UJHS), Jasmin Kindra (UJHS), Victoria Prussing, Veronica Barcelona, Jyana Gregory,and Beth Nardulli (UJHS) Not pictured: Michelle Garcia, Lita Papanicolas, and Sorcha Wool (UJHS)

CHEERLEADERS

The cheerleaders were new and improved this year. They practiced three times a week for an hour. Their success was due to their leader, Liz Wagner, who was assisted by senior Kristin Knaus. In addition to their inspirational cheerleading, they had a car wash to raise money for their uniforms. (Pictured clockwise from top: Sonia Johnson, Kristin Knaus, Linda Sweeney, Erin Grant, Heather Ort, Liz Wagner, Molly Jamison)

TRACK AND FIELD

Before the sun has even managed to creep over the horizon, thirty-two Uni students are already on their way to the Armory for the ULTIMATE running experience . . . morning track practice. How they can get up at 5:00 a.m. and RUN remains a mystery, but these dedicated runners are on their way to becoming one of the top track teams in the area. Led by their coach Bonnie Neville, assistant coach Terry, and field coach Dali, these Illineks are destined to become champions. The 1989 track season should show the world we're not "Puny Uni" anymore. This year's team captains are seniors Chad Brinkley, Paul Talbot, Michay Brown, and Tamar Shapiro. Returning this year are all four state finalists of the two-mile relay — Tamar Shapiro, Ellen Wheeler, Tysan Huang, and Michay Brown; two-mile state qualifier Tamar Shapiro; quarter-mile state qualifier Michay Brown, and 200-meter semi-finalist Bridget O'Connor.

Lollipop! Lollipop! Oh, lolli, lolli, lolli . . . lolllipop! (pop!)

This is representative of only one of the many fundraisers held by this year's organizations in varied attempts to go somewhere or to do something useful. New organizations like Tennis Club, Spanish Club, and SBW (Students for a Better World) debuted this year, while others continued to grow.

Funded by a generous student council, patrons, and multiple sales, our literary staffs were busy this year, keeping us up on the latest happenings, discovering the Shakespeares, and compiling the highlights of the 1988-89 school year.

Independently-funded activities included the Latin Club's trip to Rome and Mixed Chorus' Chicago tour. The Lounge Committee accepted furniture donations and played "musical furniture arranging," creating the "Fort of Love" for Seniors (and Joe) only.

The Agora Days Committee had a tough job to do but created another successful schedule this year. Both students and faculty became teachers as the school had a week off from the usual classes and a chance to explore new areas like French Desserts, Bad Movies, Jimi Hendrix, and Pictionary.

Science Society and Math Team were also on their toes again this year, running away with all of the honors in the Science Olympiad and JETS competitions.

All in all, the organizations this year were exactly that — organized — adding a little pizzazz to the ordinary pace of life at Uni High.

GARGOYLE/YEARBOOK

Our yearbook editors: Michay Brown, Lynne Peck, Sueanne Kim, and advisor Jennifer Burns (JVDB)

Bill Eisenstein, Layout editor: Aaron Stigberg

The Gargoyle staff was led by the editors, Bill Eisenstein and Andrea Leap. The hard working reporters produced an issue of Gargoyle once every 3-4 weeks. The newspaper was very exciting, with articles ranging from "Sleep" to "Anarchy." The staff even covered the Math tree controversy with impartiality. These excellent standards are sure to be continued next year. The sponsor of both Gargoyle and the yearbook was the woman of steel: Jennifer Van Duzen Burns. Yearbook had two staffs, one that worked during Journalism and another that rotated between the editors' houses. They did everything from sharpening grease pencils to drawing beautiful layouts.

SFAC

The Student Faculty Advisory Committee worked together to solve schoolwide problems. The members met every Friday in Dr. Ames' office . SFAC did a lot of work in the beginning of the year to set down operating procedures for SCRAP, the Student Conduct Review and Appeals committee. Top to bottom, left to right: Aaron Loeb, Andy Foland, Andrea Leap, Cynthia Liebovich, Jennifer Hsui, Elizabeth Jockusch, Joel Crames, and Audrey Wells. Not pictured: Noah Levin.

EXECUTIVE STUDENT COUNCIL

In Student Council, Milt ran the show. Ruthie made sure Milt ran the show. Joel made sure everyone stayed within the constitution. Aaron told Dr. Ames what was going on and Jeff wrote it all down. The Executive Student Council, from left to right: Jeff Hendrickson, Aaron Loeb, Ruthie Levy, Milton Otto, and Joel Ullom.

UNIQUE

The editors Stephie Kovacs, Mimi Marty and Tasha van Es, and their sponsor, Adele Suslick, have orchestrated another great edition of Unique. The staff (t to b, l to r): Matt Childress, Chad Brinkley, Yamini Bhagwat, Nellie Nanda, Jimm Lynge Jon Ott, Mimi Marty, Janet Dornhoff, Lynne Peck, Marsha Mohr, Meredith Minear, Maryka Trent, Jennifer Thaler, Jenny Moon, Monica Bavishi, Erin O'Neill, Lesley Lundeen, Minjoo Lee, Elizabeth Barrette, Robert Brown, Tasha van Es, Stephie Kovacs, Tamar Shapiro, Jason Butler.

SCIENCE SOCIETY

Science Society, under the able command of Joel Ullom and sponsor David Stone, did several exciting things. Besides movies and guest speakers, they entered the Science Olympiad and performed experiments. Other than that, the members said they sat around and made fun of people. (T to b, l to r: Jennifer Thaler, Angela Tsay, Joel Ullom, Jimm Lynge, David Stone, Kevin Curran, Debbie Katzenellenbogen, Paul Marty, Youngmoo Kim, and Dolly Banerjee. Not pictured: Vinay Singh)

MATH CLUB

This year the math team, led by Pat McLoughlin, met every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday to solve and discuss math problems. They took lots of National Math League (NML) and Illinois Math League (IML) tests, and participated in spring contests such as the Illinois Council of Teachers of Mathematics test (ICTM). Pictured left to right: Heather Garrett, Alexandra Newman, Kie Ross, Sivan Ritz, and Leah Reingold.

JV CHESS

This year's J.V. chess team, composed almost entirely of freshmen, showed great promise during their practises and meets. It was encouraging to see increased female participation. Several members of the team will undoubtedly form the core of future varsity teams. (Pictured left to right, top to bottom: Jon Tsai, Corey Hochman, Evan Chen, Chris Turner, Mindy Foland, Jane Zhang, Peter Chou, Che-Wei Wang, Ricky Abdulla, Melinda Minear, and Tze-John Tang. VARSITY CHESS

Once again Mr. Butler fearlessly coached (and ate) the chess team to victory in the only sport where you can earn a letter while sitting down. The team competed in several meets including an invitational they hosted at the Illini Union.

H.I.S.S.

The Historical Simulation Society met on Tuesdays after school. They play-tested new versions of games while fighting epic battles and ruling vast empires.

LATIN CLUB

This year the Latin club was lead by president Leah Reingold and Secretary/Treasurer Mindy Foland. They had a raffle to raise money for the Latin IV class' trip to Rome. The Latin Club also joined the Junior Classical League and planned a Roman Banquet for the end of the year. (Pictured left to right, top to bottom: Hugo Soskin, Leah Reingold, Sivan Ritz, Mindy Foland, Judy Clifton, Andrea Peck, Dezera Davis, Kie Ross. AGORA DAYS

Agora Days this year was run by that suave and efficient crew composed of Juliette Dade, Angie Lee, Caroline Kim, and Sivan Ritz. There were courses as diverse as Walt Disney Appreciation and Cooking The White Way. Agora Days was a smashing success this year, a success that will go unequaled until next year.

GERMAN CLUB

ELECTIONS COMMITTEE

LOUNGE COMMITTEE

The Lounge Committee was made up of Paul Talbot. With occasional help from a few other people, he helped to keep the lounge clean this year. In addition to this, these people were instrumental in the rearrangement of lounge furniture. Two of their creations were the Fort of Love and the Psychedelic Shack. The Lounge Committee thought up ingenious ideas such as Orgasm Day, Slam Dunk Contest Day, Beach Party '89, Kick Out Sophomores Day, Dump Sub and Freshmen Day, and also created a religion which worshipped the Wall of Death and Elvis.

TENNIS CLUB

The members of Tennis Club spent many joyous hours hitting neon green tennis balls over a net. They perfected their skills at Blair Park and the courts across from Kenney Gym. This was the first year for the reborn Tennis Club.

STUDENTS FOR A BETTER WORLD

SBW was new to Uni this year. The group existed in other area schools, but was brought here by Kate Depew and Anne McKinney. The goals included helping charitable groups through volunteer work or donations. (left to right, top to bottom: Andrew Cardman, Robert Kim, Anne McKinney, Mr. B., Kate Depew, Peter Nguyen, Dezera Davis, Ryan Hedgepeth, Ben Murphy, Joel Garcia, Joe Monahan, Amy Jackson, Jimm Lynge. Besides teaching classes, the faculty were extremely busy this year with their own extracurricular activities. While continuing their jobs teaching the sophomores and juniors, both Mr. Pat and Miss Edgington (now Mrs. Castellon, of course) managed to find time to get married. The freshman class is now learning English from Mrs. Burns, Miss Van Duzen of last year. Even the History department married off a member, Ms. Wysocki. Also, Coach Scott got married just before the school year started. Fortunately, there were no divorces.

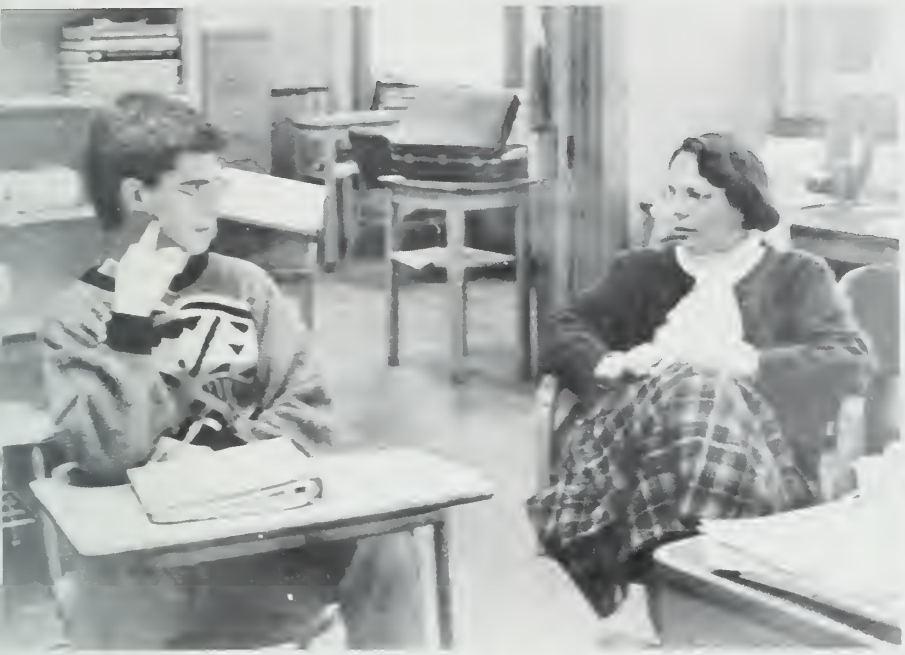
But marriage isn't all that happened. Two babies were born: Mrs. Henry had one and Mr. Crames had the other. Mr. Fresco joined the Uni staff to teach French, as did the Newmans and Mr. Bahnke to teach Latin. The Math House took in Mrs. Castellon to teach geometry as well. Ms. Dawson went to Japan. As usual, the faculty were willing to make endless sacrifices of their time in order to sponsor different classes, clubs, and events. The administration also grew when Steve Epperson, a math teacher, became an assistant director.

However, in spite of these frivolities, the faculty remained staunchly dedicated to the "laboratory mission of Uni High" and actively broadened our horizons, graded our tests, and, in the process, caused us the customary amount of pain.



COUNSELING/ADMINISTRATION

Barbara Gutowski kept Uni in contact with the alumni.

Lori Holcomb was the secretary in the counseling office.

Randy Musselman took June Mank's place, filling her shoes quietly.

Joel Crames assisted the director and smiled a lot in the halls.

Cathy Eads served as personal secretary to Dr. Ames and ran errands for the rest of us.

June Mank retired this year after being in charge of accounting. She will be missed.

Shetyl Rydell's fingers did what no one else could as she typed everything for the faculty.

Barb Aschenbrenner helped keep the office alive and gave Julie Huls lots of rides.

Dr. Russell Ames directed the school and taught subs how to Learn, Think, and Study.

Joan Levy helped juniors and seniors as college counselor.

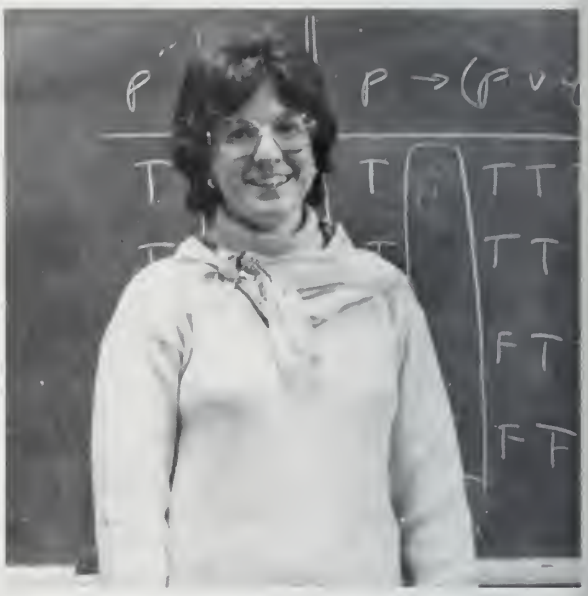
Liz Wagner was counselor, graduate assistant, and sponsor for the cheerleaders and their daring stunts.

MATH

Pat McLoughlin taught Geometry, PreCalculus, and Discrete Math, coached girls' J.V. B-ball, and sponsored the seniors.

Steve Epperson taught the Subs Algebra I and served as Assistant Administrator for Instruction.

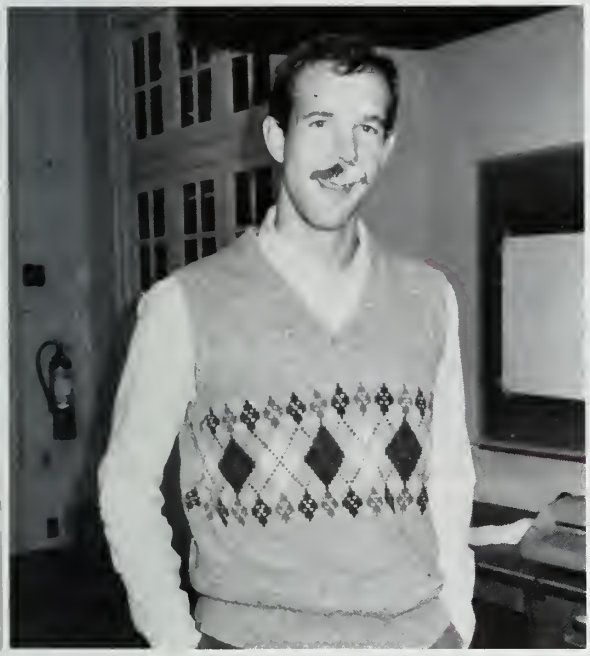
Sandra Dawson taught Calculus I and led the Math Department the Japanese way.



Carol Castellon taught Algebra I to the subs and Geometry to the Sophomores.

Elizabeth Jockusch had her mathematical hands full with Algebra II/Trigonometry and Calculus II.

David Stone taught the Freshmen Biology and encouraged Advanced Biology students to pin grasshoppers.



David Bergandine, when he wasn't kissing pigs, made wintergreen oil in Chemistry and also hypnotized Advanced Chemistry students.

Diana Dummitt employed her talents at Uni as a Science Department research assistant.

Pat Morris' subbie science class tested diapers and Kleenex.

Allen Smith, the original Yahoo, taught Physics at gunpoint.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Barbara Wysocki wowed the subs and sophs with geography and made the Seniors social advocates.

Joanne Wheeler broke the juniors' backs with Sellers in U.S. History.

Chris Butler taught subs, freshmen, and sophomores the history of the world, from Early Civilization to the present.

ENGLISH

Jennifer Burns (JVDB) taught Freshman English and Journalism and tirelessly sponsored Yearbook and Gargoyle.

Adele Suslick taught creative writing and showed the seniors how to be feminists practicing crooked politics in the South while hunting bears.

Audrey Wells taught Subbie English and gave the seniors date nut bars in Social Advocacy.

Rosemary Laughlin taught Subbie English and made the juniors perform Shakespearean skits.

Amy Baker taught Subbie English first semester and made sure the sophomores knew all about Scientific Revolutions in her English class.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Carol Bond headed the Foreign Language Department, and also taught French I.

Alain Fresco taught French II, III, IV classes.

Takuo Kinoshita taught Japanese to eager Uni students.

As a graduate teaching assistant, Lynne Ikach taught Russian II and IV.

Connie Curtin guided Uni students through Russian I and II.

Marcia Bernhard spent the year in charge of German IV, helped out Frau Henry in German I, II, and III, and monitored Language Lab.

Frances Newman, a visiting assistant professor, taught Latin I, II, and IV.

John Bahnke helped the Latin III students through the embarassment of Catullus and Vergil.

FINE ARTS

Anna Kindler taught her students to make and appreciate art.

Laura Reneau helped Uni students develop their acting skills and put together dazzling dramatic programs.

Rick Murphy taught Chorus, Madrigals, Music Theory, music lessons, Orchestra, and coached subbie boys' basketball through another thrilling season.

Pat Tracy taught art to the subs in Integrated Arts.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Sally Walker directed the P. E. department, taught P. E. and coached girls' basketball.

Tom Scott taught us Drivers Education and coached boys' basketball and soccer.

Al Ledgin was the swim coach and a Pickle-Ball god.

Bonnie Byers-Neaville taught Fitness, Health, and coached the awesome Cross Country and Track teams.

◀ MAINTENANCE

With the help of several guest custodians, John Turner kept Uni tidy.

▼ COMPUTER SCIENCE

Peter Kimble showed Uni students how to handle unruly computers.

LIBRARY

Runelle Shriver took second in command at the Uni library. Among our library bookworms was library assistant Susan Diehl. Francis Jacobsen was the chief librarian, coping with books and studious Uni-ites

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

SUBFRESHMAN: Upon entering Uni as really cool subbies, we discover that Uni dances are fun (?)! Edna is short. Arne is tall. Aaron is large. Yamini "Butcher" Bhagwat. Paul Franklin has a big nose. We have the first subbie girls basketball team. Hong Kong Fooey wins subbie class elections. "Ahon, ahon, and Ahon." — The Pimsler Language Aptitude Test. We torture Tenebrio Molitors (not worms!) in Lipousky Subbie Science, where everyone fails the astronomy unit. Plasticine wars begin! The language barrier between 8th hour Russian and 7th hour everyone else. We meet our friend Ibu in French class. The Russan trip. In geography, Mr. King teaches us about Donut-Land. Mr. B. introduces us to the religion of Mambatu, the Turnip God. Mr. Murphy makes us sing crazy songs like "La-na Bahia" and perform music videos for the whole school. A couple of us practice "exact time-keeping" to keep us on schedule. Insanity Club recruits a couple new subbie members. No Agora Week. Youngmoo and Leah battles. Stevie Wonder just called to say he loves us. The girls have Skateland parties, and all of us have steak and beer with Mr. B in Chicago. Mrs. Hoard takes the art class to White Hen and buys us ice cream cones. Kevin and Dana. Aaron and Pacia. Mrs. Hoard goes to Texas. After teaching a final subbie class how to write, Mrs. Tibbetts retires. Mr. King leaves.

FRESHMAN: We lose Paul F., James, and Alan, but we gain Michael A., Deborah, Inga, Lulu, Dave, Scott, John, Meredith, Marsha, Chanhsavat, and Angi. Some of us vacationed at Kampsville with Mr. B. Alexandra spends the year at in Germany. The famous hot dog sales begin. Agora week is back as Agora Days. We have the Howdy Hop in the first floor hallway. The seniors are so cool. Dr. Who? Miami Vice. Am I Normal? Mr. Stone teaches us the Cell Game and the story of Angiosperm and Jimmynosperm. The Challenger disaster. Tracked math class creates "dummy math." Angi's Christmas gift exchange. Tami drops her panties in the hall. Dana has lung cancer. The boneyard provides us immense entertainment, along with food fights in our new lunchroom (106 N). The Garbonzo Beans have exclusive Ted Parties. "Hi, I'm Jimmy. Can I give you a back-rub?" John putt-putts while Michay and Tamar run to state and Lynne and Marsha play Varsity B-Ball. Fitness has begun. Joel G. is "perfect," so the seniors try to find him a girl ("Joel × Tami"!). Stephie leads Oklahoma! The Grand Reunion turns our lockers snot-brown. Arne and Kristin. Dave and Sue. Paul and Dana. Marsha and Dan. Ms. Feeny is swept off her feet by her fiancé and leaves us here. Mr. Royer graduates. Mike McCollum leaves, and along with him, "fun" P.E.

SOPHOMORE: Rachel, Pacia, and Dave leave. Stefan "One-A-Week" Medina cums. Arne spends first semester in Oregon. Mrs. Baker practices E.S.P. with Meredith. To see fairies, you must believe. There is no place to hide. Bergie-Baby teaches us chem. Pat-math. Ms. Wysocki notices nothing in sophomore geography. Mr. B. says "Drop and cover!" in case of nuclear disaster, while student thieves steal the door to the Social Studies office. The Ivorians visit us. Dress-Like-Ed Day. Laser-Tag — Uni's No. 1 sport. The Wall of Truth stands in the Lounge until it is painted down. Peter Gabriel comes to town. So? The Cop-

Chase. Hessel Park snowball fights. Moo goes green. Wysocki tells us that Maryka does not exist. Brian H. and Sarah. Claudio and Stephie. Ryan and Veerle. Joel G. and Veerle. Mark N. and Lulu. Joe F. and Ruthie. Arne and Kristin. Stefan and Sarah G. Stefan and Lisa M. Ten of us go to prom and have the time of our lives (yeah, right).

JUNIOR: We lose Scott and Angi, but we gain Mark C., Matt, Stuart, Debbie, Milton, and Charlene. Kevin spends the year in Germany. Yamini cuts two feet off her hair. Milton looks like Grizzly Adams. Uni gets lost in the asphalt jungle of campus, which swallows up our outdoor P.E. field. U2. REM. The Seniors' Christmas gifts are deemed offensive. The Administration tells us how to have a party and advises Matt to leave school for a day. The Fitness Controversy. The Lounge Committee from hell takes over — but not for long. The Calc Book Scandal. "Let's impeach the Freshman class officers." Mr. Smith teaches us "yahoos" physics. Hydrosmash — Joel G. breaks another window. Orchard Downs Hill. Tami leaves for Green Bay. Ryan streaks through Kenney Gym. Boys' B-Ball R.S.K.A. Fourth-year language students have a fun time during Foreign Language Week. Paul runs to state and wins Tamar for prom. Stephie co-directs the Phantom Tollbooth. Standardized tests — SAT. ACT. ACH. The mad scramble for prom dates begins. "Joel G.× Ruthie." Stefan and Lynne. Stefan and Jenny. Mark C. and Marsha. Mark C. and Sarah. Jeff and Ruthie. Mark N. and Emily. Aaron and Amy E. Matt and Amy E. Stu and Tasha. Jimmy and Debbie. Arne and Kristin.

SENIOR: Lulu and Inga leave, but we get Minjoo, Nellie, and Laura. Kevin comes back from Germany as a junior. Eugene stays here, and Rick visits. Mrs. Mank graduates. Beach Party '88. The Wall of Death (Elvis, Sex, . . .) in the Lounge. Classical Music Hour and Rawhide in the Lounge. Orgasm Day comes. The flaming sheep rule the gang wars in the Lounge. Keep them subs out of the Lounge! Senior English is debatable. Senioritis sets in as we begin college apps. Supervised Senior Christmas gift giving. Aaron's Fruit Salad. Bush and Quayle (Busch and Quail). The Illini are #1 for a while. Girls' B-Ball R.S.K.A. Girls' Cross-Country R.S.K.A. Romance is in the air: Pat and Wysocki get engaged (but not to each other), and Bergandine kisses a pig. The Latin class goes to Rome; Chanhsavat, Meredith, Dana, and Beth go to Russia. Jimmy and Helena. Ricky and Marsha. Mark C. and Sarah. Stu and Tasha. Kevin and Debbie. Mark N. and Emily. Stefan and Alecia. "Joel ×Ruthie." Dana and Freedom (Liberty, and Justice). Joel G. and Paul T. Chanhsavat and Alex: Developments in the Darkroom. Graduation on Wednesday. Prom on Thursday. Senior Class Trip — "Where are we going?"

37 original subbies have survived Uni.

LIBERATION TIME! WE HAVE OVERCOME!

SENIOR CLASS WILL

I, Yamini Bhagwat, leave a three-pointer and lots of ethnicity to Pari, Neena, and Dolly, memories of Rahul and Sammy to Pari, a hug to Patty, my gift of oratory to Sue "Chill" Pleck, Yellow Slips to Hightshoe, many thanks to Dr. Stone, the science department, Murph, and Mrs. J; Pat, my everlasting gratitude for being such an incredible human being all these years; the Boudreau Legacy to Fabio and Caroline "Sheila" Kim, my love to Ranjit and last, but not least, I leave all future basketball players lots of playing time, fun, and best wishes.

I, Chad Brinkley, leave my thanks to everyone for putting up with me. To all my friends, I leave my undying love and gratitude (you guys are the best). To Andrea Leap, I would like to leave a vat of burned butter and to everyone who always wanted to be left something and wasn't, my sympathy. Iuosymevahnacuoyeihpetsdn a.

I, Michay Brown, leave my height to Pat, Susan, and to the many Uni guys under 5'6" who need it, a spare breadstick to Bonnie for whenever she's in a restaurant with the track team, thank you to Mr. Scott, memories of my handwriting to all the terrific teachers who bothered to struggle to read it, and my ability to remain positive under pressure to Bridget, Allison, Amy, and my Run'n'Munch pals, Ellen and Sivan.

I, Mark Cahill, leave a set of car keys to Rob Kim, yellow paint to paint the Assembly Hall curb and a lifetime membership to a nudist colony to Doug Jolly, and to Dave Das, the man with one, I leave a nut.

I, Andrew Cardman, leave senior Éstefan a bad pun, best wishes to my brother Mike, some oxygen to Brendan and One to Dave Das. I also leave Mozart's Requiem to Mark Cowan.

I, Matt Childress, leave upon my passing . . . the Uni Mud Football Association to Tysan and Stephanie, my reputation of ill repute to Billy, who hopefully can keep it under better wraps. To Angie Lee, I leave a Playgirl, so she can see what a real man looks like. To Ben, a pair of 3-D glasses so he can always see straight. To Chad R., I leave a Valium. To Julie Huls, Administrator Repellant. Patty Mullally, my tush. To Jenny Moon, all of my tests, so maybe next time . . . And last but most unimportant, as I pursue my premed career, the 1989 prom committee should take two live grenades — don't call me in the morning.

I, Sarah J. Crawford, leave Doug Jolly hopes of an older woman, some stunning 11th and 13th chords to Murphy, a fresh metaphor to Mrs. Laughlin, a can of hairspray to Arah, and some roll-on to Kelly. To any (and all) of the subs who need one, I leave my personality and to some choice members of the orchestra, I leave a tiny bit of musicality. I'll give my blond mentality to anyone who thinks that it'd be fun to be the ditz of music theory! To Boy Wonder (little bro), I leave years of unspoken love, and finally, to all the people who have given me their smiles so freely, I leave a huge hug!

I, Michael Evans, leave my meager chess ability to next year's team who will sure need it and my ability to not worty during my last high school semester to next year's seniors.

I, Edna Sarah Friedberg, leave to Andrea Leap, a hypocritical "ba-NAH-na," to Robin Morgan, I leave Enduroracer and some jalapeno jelly bellies, to Sonja Moser, I leave some Irish Spring Soap, and I leave the best of luck to Troy Lozar, Bonnie Stephens, Angie Lee, and Tasha van Es (my 13-year friend).

I, Heather Garrett, leave to Sarah Miller my amazing abilities in Swim Team and a calculus quiz, to Yvette my color-coordinated footwear, to Pat and the Math Team I leave the memory of Ben Klemens; to Zivar Baker my ability to be loud at eight o'clock in the morning. To Mrs. Suslick I leave my multi-volume daybooks, and to next year's Creative Writing class, I leave Mrs. Suslick.

I, Arne Gullerud, leave my remarkable ability to misspell every word in the English language to the English department, all my mouth sounds to anyone who needs a new party trick, the Plato lab to Alecia & Tony or whoever either is going with now, and my talent at winning contests only if I have no skill in the area to someone who has no skill.

I, Beth Han, leave my memories of Veerle, Ellen, Will, and CJ to Patty, some Lifesavers to Allison Wickens, an academy award to Sean C., some innocence to Ben (to replace what he lost), and my ability to be calm most of the time and my hair to Anne.

I, Stuart Hanson, leave upon my parting, my three-point shooting ability to Pari P., my Cardinal memorabilia and a package of Oreos to Alex J., my small mouth to Bridget O., my french accent to Fabio G., my musical taste to Jenny M., a beer to Brian F., a masseuse to Tasha, my height to Doug J., my parking space to Angie L. so she can learn the basics of parking, to the entire Junior class we leave John Meyers, my red car to Kinoshita Sensay, a new edition of Webster's dictionary to Mrs. Laughlin, my jokes, without punchlines, to Mr. Kimble, a plunger to Dr. Ames in case his porta-potty plugs up, and most importantly, lots of love to Tasha van Es.

I, Ryan C. Hedgepeth, leave my Kenny Battle basketball moves to Rob Kim and Sang, my vertical jump to Derek "Big Boy" Flynn and a few leftover goal strikes to Fabio, Doug, and Hightshoe. I also leave Caty S. all she can handle and more, lots of untold love to my little sister, and my best wishes for a bright future to all those who I leave behind . . . your time will come.

I, Deborah Hicks, of an unsound mind, hearby write my last will and testament. For Anna Neatrour I leave my ribald comments, to Mindy Foland I leave crew, while I leave my sartorial taste to Zivar and several rolls of duct tape to Carl Crawford. Lastly, I leave my weirdness to the whole school, for there is enough to go around.

I, Debbie Katzenellenbogen, leave my appreciation to my teachers, to the amazing main office team, and to Mr. Crames for his encouragement. I leave Pari P. my potimism, Neena my tickliness, Kevin C. my awesome athletic skill, and Fritz B. my ability to do homework.

I, Sueanne Kim, leave a lot of luck to my friends in the subbie class, my (little) brother Jeff a preppy new outfit, Sang lots of fun times and a bottle of Malibu, and a force-field around Joe M. so that he can't touch anyone anymore. To Alecia I leave a Mercedes 190 — no, that's too nice — a cute little red BMW, in case she rolls that Buick of hers and whatever's left of Sang's Malibu, to all the "too nice" people here (Julie H., Kate, Angie L., Allison H.) my obnoxiousness, my thanks to Barb, Randy, and Cathy in the office and the secretaty in the counselling office, and kisses to all my friends.

I, Youngmoo Kim, leave the upper half of my voice to the Tenor section (and Hugo), my ability to fall asleep in class to Andrea and Sonja (and Hugo), the lower half of my voice also to Andrea and Sonja (Hugo doesn't need it), my DJing ability to all future DJs (and Hugo), and lots of luck to my brother (he'll need it). My enthusiasm and talent for music is left for Mr. Murphy to distribute as necessary.

I, Kristin DeAnn Knaus, leave Troy and Theo my remembrance forever and ever and ever. I leave Andrea Leap the optimism that she kept commenting on two years ago when I was really depressed, and Linda the ability to sit still. To Molly Jamison I leave the ability to yell, and I leave my best wishes to future generations of Uni cheerleaders. And last but not least, I leave the South Attic and the adjoining landing to Troy and Yvette.

I, Stephie Kovacs, leave Andrea L. and Yvette (sis) T.H.O. and lots of love, Andrea P. an hug and a slam dunk, Jyana Gregory, body fur, Emily Kerlin my legacy as "blondie," Julie Huls a layout in Vogue, Kie Ross a hunk, an antique dress, and a date for tea, Han Paik a seven foot tall, gorgeous blond, Susan Pleck a tape of me saying "Sue," the Unique staff zaniness, Jon Turner a million "Good Mornings" the secretaries my admiration and special xeroxing privileges when I get my own machine, Murphy "His" music books, my teachers and Mr. Crames: a smile, my sincere thanks, and credit for my first Oscar, and my family a ray of sunshine.

I, Dana Kumar, leave the point at the back of my neck to Anne McKinney, a key to my house to Ben Murphy so he doesn't have to come in the window, the presidency of UFD to Dana Wagner, and my memories of Will Capel and Charlene Sweeney to all of the subs who never knew them.

I, Minjoo Lee, leave my senioritis to Jenny, my college-panic to Monica, my republican ideals to Jeff H. for safe-keeping, the "supervision" of Eddie to all who knew him, and the best of luck to my little brother.

I, Ruth Ellen Levy, leave (Levy-leave?) crew and hugs to Zivar and Tony, some groovy waves to Ben, love to the swim team, and a bozzle wozzle day in Japan to Alex J.

I, Aaron John Loeb, leave Mark Cowan my taste in music, Han Paik my Bulgin' Biceps, my machismo to Hugo Soskin, my love and respect to Sonja Moser (Yeah, right), my rebellious sense against fitness to everyone and anyone. We shall overcome! a heart to Mrs. Wheeler, courage to Amy Jackson, a brain to Julie Huls, and my powerful voice to Joe Monahan.

I, Jimm Lynge, leave all the muscle I didn't use in fitness to Billy, to Frank $10 towards a nose job, to Amy J. a pair of concrete dance shoes, to Chad R. a lifetime supply of Caffeine Free Pepsi, a new 'vette to Alecia, the UMFL (see Matt's) to Tysan and Stephanie, to Jon Ott a large moose, a car with a chainsaw hood ornament to Theo, from Adam, Matt and I take his shorts because he'd look better in his jock, to Kate a baseball so she can tell when someone is hitting on her, to Yvette and Troy, lip retreads every 30,000 miles, and finally, a piece of advice to all: LEAVE! Get out while you still can!

I, Paul F. Marty, leave everything I own to my legally adopted son, Fritz Burkhardt, with the following exceptions: The lower half of my voice to Hugo Soskin, the door on the history office to Ms. Wysocki, lots of luck to Mimi (she'll need it), my ability to turn bright red in the face to Mr. Murphy (although he does quite well on his own already), my incredible store of Dr. Xauius stories to Mr. Butler, who undoubtedly needs them, and everything else.

I, Stefan Jaime Medina, leave Coach Scott a pair of spandex shorts, Spanish Club to someone who needs something for their transcripts, Pat a 16 oz. coffee and a lot of really bad puns, a tissue to Mrs. Suslick from me and Tito, modesty to Kie and Pari, my raging libido to Fritz, my speed to Finees, a nice wool sweater to Chief Pumpem Sheep, my daily pool playing to Ben the Mur and Mark the Cow, my 17 Pink Floyd albums to whomever has good taste and a large album rack, Classical Hour to Bonnie S., Neena T., and Adam W., and to Bonnie Neaville, I leave. Oh, by the way, Andrea, don't forget that holding hands is one thing . . .

I, John Meyers, leave my incredible chess skill to Jon Tsai, to Bobby Jamison I leave my record of getting kicked out of the library in seven seconds, and to Mr. Smith I leave my knowledge of a different dimension in which I based my test answers on.

I, Meredith Minear, being of sound . . . (well, let's skip that), leave my subscription to Mademoiselle to Linda Sweeney, my leather jacket and my fingernails to Emily, my ability to set these nails aflame and my calorimeter to next year's Science Society, my cynicism to next year's Unique. To Melinda, I leave all my Bon Jovi albums and my height so she can kick Bunny butt. To Susan, I leave a lifetime supply of high fives, and to my cat Cleopatra, the only one who ever truly loved me, I leave everything else.

I, Marsha Mohr, leave the hope of graduation to my brother, a french fry and some confidence to Allison H., an after-hours visit to Jamie B., my dull colored running tights and a song to Allison W., a devious mind to Pari P., my height to Susan P., an emergency pack of M&M's to my math class, and good luck and a hug to the track team, the basketball team, and all my friends.

I, Nellie Nanda, leave my best wishes for a wonderful senior year to my brother, Micky, all my college literature to Monica, everything "cute" in this school to Jenny, and three wishes to Patty.

I, Mark Neely, leave my Jimi Hendrix records to Mark C. and Ben M., my blazing speed to Sang, some money to Mr. Stone, Mr. Smith, and Mrs. Wheeler for all the trouble I've caused them, and to Emily I leave my love.

I, Alexandra M. Newman, leave a couple random calculus problems to whomever would like to do them, my locker shelves to Juliette in the hope that her locker might become organized, the best of luck to the cross country and track teams, and some Nanimo bars to Ellen and Sivan.

I, Milton Otto II, leave Joe and Maureen to carry on the good name of Arcola Rednecks at Uni, a Barry Manilow tape to Ben Murphy, some downers to Pat (he's too hyper), a six pack to Mark Cowan (empry of course), to my friends I leave the lounge, and to my enemies I leave Senior English, to Will Capel who is like a brother I leave everything given to me by my brother Tim, to Han Paik I leave my Anarchist beliefs, because Anarchy is indeed fun, and last but not least to my nephews (classes of '95, '98, and 2001), I leave this school and the knowledge that for one year at least, Rednecks ruled.

I, Lynne Peck, leave a smile to Pat, Murphy, Mr. Scott, Mr. Turner, and Mr. Crames, my thanks, a quiet bus ride, and my razor to Sally, best of luck to the basketball team, a thank you to Cathy, Barb, and Randy for their patience, my optimism to Sue P., my sewing skills (plus my modeling skills) to Neena, and my love to my (little) sis.

I, Leah S. Reingold, leave my fast-talking abilities to Mr. Pat, my unoffical, high contest scores to Kie Ross, who really needs them, and my notable skills in simulation games to Melinda Minear.

I, Sanjiv Sarwate, leave Carl Crawford the Ladder of Death, my Liberalism to Robby Auler, my sense of humor to Theo, Troy exactly what he's worth, my hatred of Fitness, along with Gaeron McClure's to Chris Turner, and my younger brother to Uni High, the finest school on Earth.

I, Tamar Shapiro, leave Tysan tennis courts and fruit trees, Amy a fence and a very long T-shitt, Ellen all my "inimitable" running shoes, Pari a healthy (much needed) case of senioritis, Allison my laugh, and Joe a beating.

I, Vinay K. Singh, leave the Junior and Sophomore classes my best wishes, Kevin a sheepskin seat cover, Robbie Johnson some Speedstick, my height to Brendan, Hugo a Pacifier, and Rob Kim a driver's license.

I, Chanhsavat Sylavong, leave a bag of OREO cookies to Alex J., my slam-jamming ability to Jason Wolf, my height to Brendan and Derek, a smile to Pari, my soccer skills to Allison H., a balloon to Lindy S., 40-macho points to Hosun and 47 to Tze-John, a pschiatrist for Fritz, my whines to Dolly, my obnoxiousness to Allison and Patty (good luck with basketball next year), 30 laps to Sarah M., my Agora Days schedule to Angela Lee, a punching bag for Tasha, my best to Neena T., some phone numbers to Fabio, a 15-minute break to John Turner, a morning hello to Julie H., an appointment with Playgirl to Joe M., all my moves to Doug, a Taco for everyone else, and a hug to all.

I, Paul Talbot, leave Eugene and Matt's running experience, along with mine to Frank Winter, Eugene's goofy running sryle to Robert Kim, some skin to Jeff and Ho, Lee's shades and plane numbers to Han Paik, my lounge dictatorship to Ben Murphy, my hair to Steve Kim, my ability to go five years without bringing a lunch to school to anyone who likes campus food, Paul D.'s job at the Grim Rodger to anyone who likes roaches, my job at Taco John's to Mark Cowan, some respect and thanks to Pat, Mrs. Wheeler, and Dr. Stone, and my brotherly love and friendship to Joe Monahan.

I, Jennifer Thaler, leave Jeff and Kevin to each other, Alex J. my cruel sense of humor and a ballad, to future Russian classes the Russian banquets, to Mr. Stone one hyperventilation and to Mr. B. I leave Persia and the ability to betray your best friend.

I, Mary Kay Treat, leave my color coordination and my voice to Allison W., my study habits to Pari P.,my intensity to Suuu, Robin and Shira to Jamie and Joe, my earrings, my promptness, and my rep to Hightshoe, $50 for her next ticket to Alecia, my bra size and the best of luck to the sub girls and boys, (respectively), a tardy note and a "Please!" to Barb and Cathy, recognition in my will to Rob Kim, and a Smile and a "Hi!" to Sally, Pat, Mr. Stone, Mrs. Wheeler, Mr. B., Bergie, and Mrs. Laughlin.

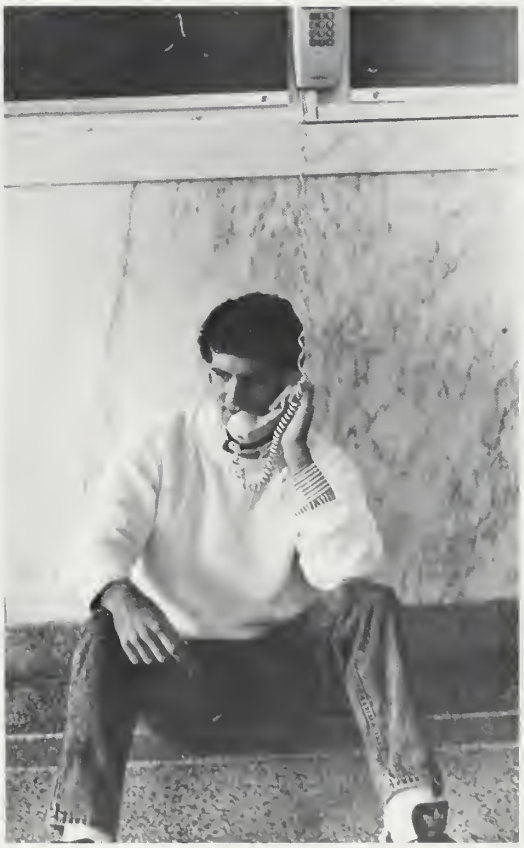
I, Angela Tsay, leave a normal class to Mr. Stone, bonjour to PAT, my intense love of math to Ms. Dawson, invincible Macedon to Mr. B., lots of Russian homework to Mrs. Curtin and my beloved Russian class, the Conservatoire and my thanks to Murph, lots of luck to the orchestra, and finally my friendship to Nate, Tony, Hugo, Eddie, Tze-John and Jenny Kang.

I, Joel Ullom, leave a pair of point shoes to Amy J., the Baltic Fleet to Mr. B., and my Rambo T-shirt to anyone who deserves it.

I, Ted Weinbaum, leave nothing to you, snotface.

"Hey, it's us . . . and we're working!"

Joel x Ruthie . . . it really is true.



"I told you never to call me at work!"

"Just hold on Aaron — I've almost got it."

Taking notecards, Kristin?

The underclassmen toil without rest. Year after year, they sit through Learn, Think, Study, cut up frogs in Biology, find the length of the hypotenuse in Geometry, and churn out essays in U. S. History. But the life of an underclassman is not without lighter moments of gossiping and horsing around in the halls. Students can be found tossing a football around in front of school, sitting on the floor doing last minute homework, and waiting while their lunches are cooked in the microwave. Underclassmen show up in large numbers at dances, picnics, sports events, and other school activities. This has been an eventful year: the subbies invaded the Lounge, the freshmen learned how to petition out of P. E., the sophomores won "Pack-the-Place" (twice!), and the juniors kissed pigs, planned Prom, and studied hard so that they could be lazy seniors. The first four years here at Uni are busy, challenging, and exciting ones.

Once again, the juniors learned the joys of U. S. History. Led by Troy Lozar, this year's class dutifully went to any length to raise money for prom, including making people kiss pigs. This year's officers: President Troy Lozar, Representative Angie Lee, and Secretary/Treasurer Neena Tripathy.

This year's Sophomore class was under the command of Representative Jamie Bennett, President Han Paik, and Secretary/Treasurer Allison Hightshoe. Inheriting severe financial shortages from last year, the class rebounded with several successful bake sales, dances, amd other fundraisers. In a great victory for Sophomores everywhere, they won "Pack the Place" twice.

FRESHMEN

The freshmen got their first taste of what it is to be a true high school class this year as they invaded the Uni sports arena, got into the lounge, and started fundraising in earnest for 1991's prom. They gave Uni such memorable moments as the Spring Fling and the Candy/Gelt sale. Leading them were President Mojgone Azemun, Representative Heidi van Es, and Secretary/Treasurer Andrea Peck.

SUBFRESHMEN

The subbies, this year, were the biggest class numbering an astounding 58 students. They are planning on being yet another wonderful class. Although an interesting class, they were not very active organizing bake sales or other fund-raisers. However, they attended Uni dances in great numbers. They were led by (left to right) Tristan Bolen (secretary/treasurer), Veronica Barcelona (representative), and Eddie Lee (president).

This is what too much Vivarin does to you.

Fritz and the boys

Lunchtime hall-blocking

Jason reads the Gargoyle swimsuit issue.

"So when's the honeymoon?"

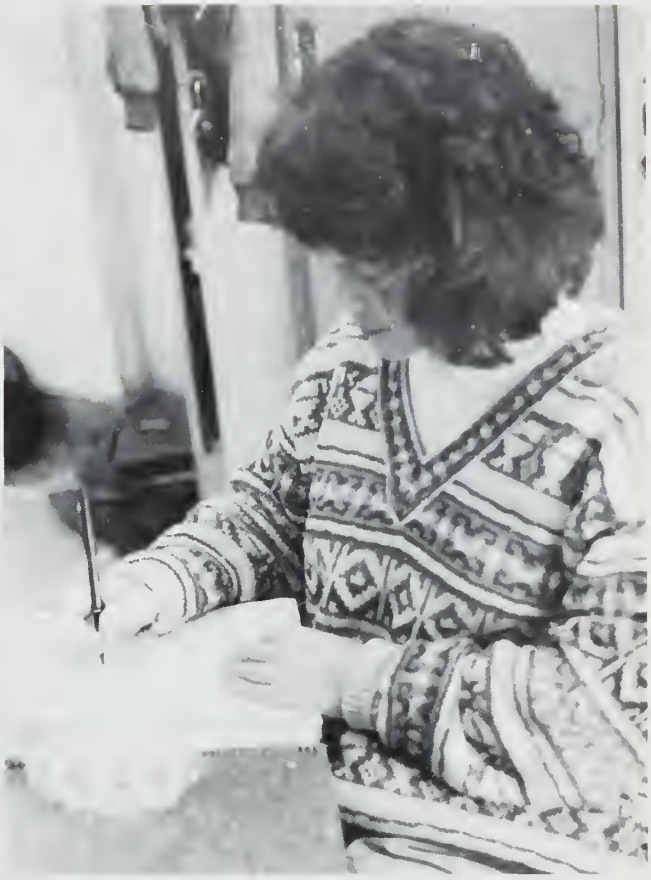
Mrs. Morris' hit squad

"Please, don't hit me!"

"Grrrrr."

Finger lickin' good

Super SIPPER



Generic caption #9: " — hard at work."

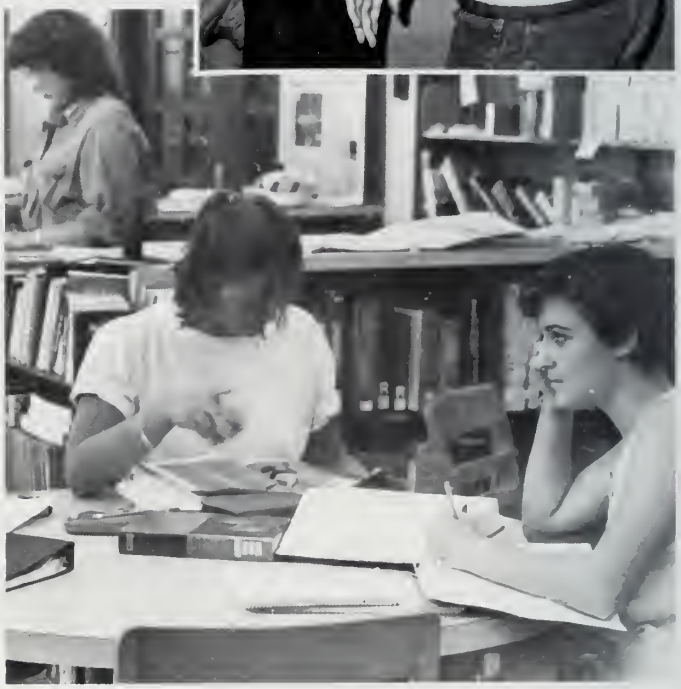
Generic caption #5: "Boy, am I bushed."

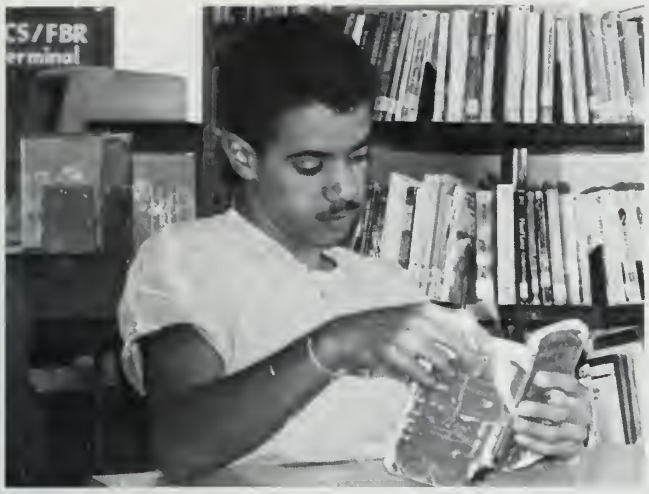
EVIL INCARNATE

And he even read it!

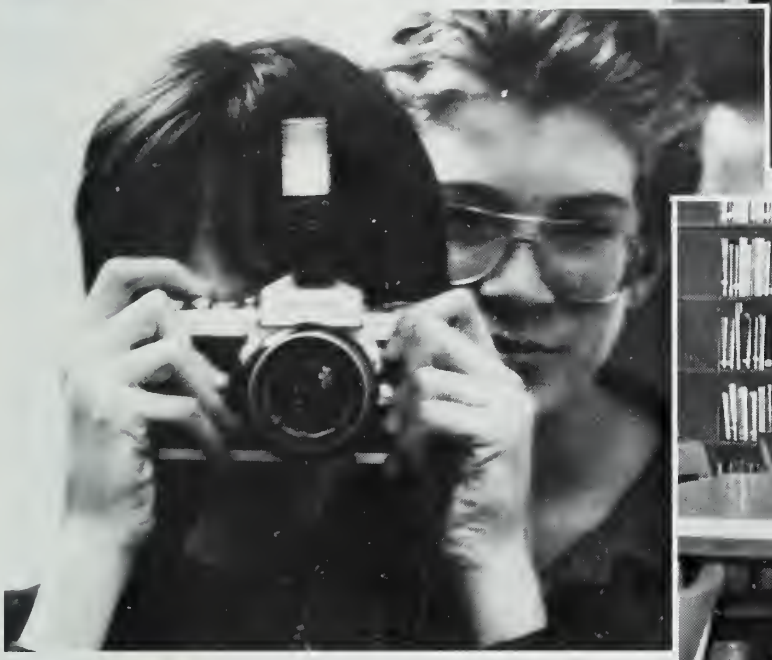
See page 121

Subs in action

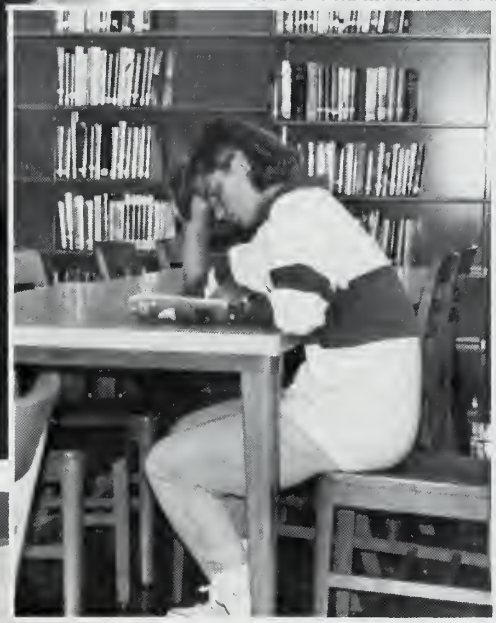




"You didn't tell me about the baby!"



See page 120



"Ha! I'm overlapping on top of two pictures!"

Typical Linda

"Later days, dude."

Chief Mohawk and his tribe

A tender moment II

"Don't grab there!"

Real Men

Joel the destroyer and his sidekick, Paul

"What did you put in your drink, Brendan?"

Bill works hard on a difficult task.

A tender moment

Hunks

Pretty tough, Milt.

Pull harder, Fritz!

Singin' in the rain

Mark.

Shouldn't Amy be wearing that shirt?

Tristan the peacenik

Smugness and dazedness

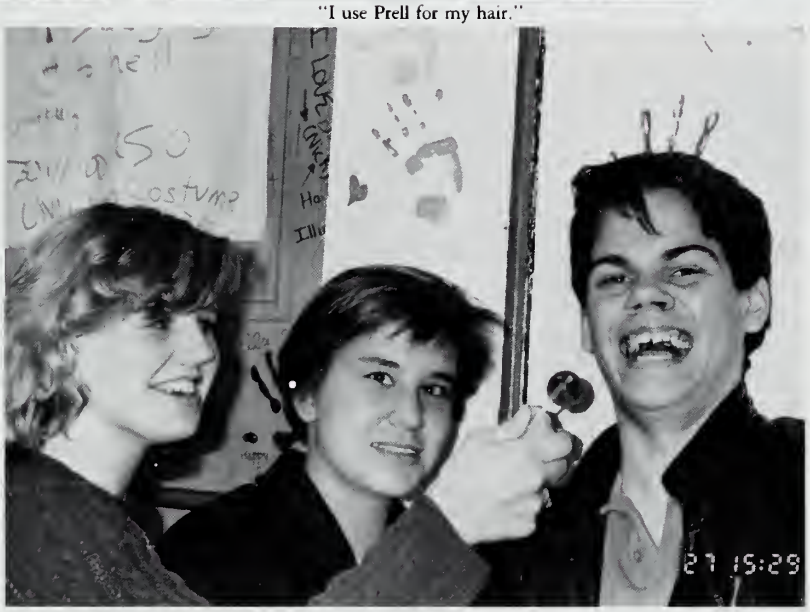
Look at those chubby cheeks.

Don't take this, please.

"Like, y'know, what can I do with my hair?"

"I use Prell for my hair."

Hmmm . . . wonder who the photo editor is?



Lollipops are bad for the brain.

Amy awoke suddenly to find herself in school.

"I'm so depressed."

Attack of the Killer Scarves

"I just love an Aqua Velva man!"

"Oh, no, Mr. Hands! Don't eat me!"

Heh heh heh . . . you're on "Candid Camera."

"Susan, you're my idol!"

Oh, those beautiful blondes!

THE MESSY SIDE

of Uni

The epitome of locker cleanliness.

"Oh no, the haunted locker!"

Well, here we are, it's Friday afternoon and the three of us are practicing our signatures for the ones you see to the right of this column. We are listening to something like WLRW ("station from HELL") so the door is closed. The quote of the week has been, "I don't care, let's just do it!"

We started off this year by going to yearbook conferences to try and figure out what we were supposed to do. Sue understood some, but Michay and Lynne came in knowing very little. Anyway, that's where we first thought of the idea of our little graphic theme. Our theme is a VISUAL theme — Not a saying. Not a phrase..just visual!! Between Michay's calendar and creative ideas, Lynne's computer drawings, and Sue's artistic talents we were able to develop the cover and book-wide theme.

Then, after a certain amount of procrastination, we began to harass Fritz and Chancy on a regular basis for the photos in this book. Fortunately, we did not complain in vain for as you can see, they completed their task.

In any case, the book is now finished and by some amazing miracle we survived. It's been weird, crazy, hyper, bizzare, spiffy, and amusing. Of course, we were far from being able to complete the book all by ourselves. At this point we'd like to extend a HUGE THANKS to JVDB, Barb, Cathy, and Randy for putting up with all of us, and our "inside" and "outside" staffs.

To everyone else who asked, "Is it done yet?!" Now, we can finally answer, YES IT IS!
